

POW Assaulted In Maghaberry

This September, Irish Republican Prisoner of War Sean Farrell has been placed in isolation, subject to invasive searches and beaten by the prison riot squad in the British hellhole of Maghaberry Prison.

On September 11, Irish Republican Prisoner Sean Farrell was placed in isolation in Maghaberry Prison, British Occupied Ireland, after the screws claimed that an x-ray body scan he was subjected to having returned from a Brit court, was 'inconclusive'.

The Irish Republican Prisoners Welfare Association stated that an inconclusive result was not surprising because 'those who are tasked with interpreting such scans are not radiologists nor trained or qualified to operate such technology. They are Maghaberry screws with a vendetta against Republican Prisoners and use this technology as a medium to harass us and place us in solitary confinement'

The situation deteriorated further on September 13th. After 3 days solitary confinement 'on the boards' Sean returned to the Republican landings in Roe House. As he was about to join his comrades, Sean was subjected to a vicious assault by the prison riot squad, sustaining shoulder and neck injuries. Sean was forcefully strip searched by the riot squad, which in reality is a sexual assault of a Republican POW by British Imperialism in Ireland.

The Revolutionary Socialist Republican Movement condemns the assault of Sean Farrell and the growing aggression against Republican POWs in Maghaberry by Loyalist prison officers under the direction of MI5. We urge all Republicans across Ireland to stand behind the POWs and be ready to support them if conflict in the prison continues.

Raise the cry across Ireland, Victory to the Republican Prisoners!

Newspapers play a key role in the revolutionary movement. Education, organisation, information and recruitment are all important functions of a Revolutionary newspaper. But a newspaper is much more than that. Newspaper sales create a local presence in communities across Ireland, help develop a network of supporters and generate finance. Most importantly, a Republican newspaper spreads the Republican Gospel without censorship to those who might otherwise never hear it. In September 1865 the Irish People, the newspaper of our predecessor organisation, the Irish Republican Brotherhood was suppressed by the British Authorities for the effective manner in which it was spreading the Republican Gospel and organising the movement. An Phoblacht Abú is proud to stand in the tradition of the Irish People and All Revolutionary Republican Papers that have gone before us. If you want to play a role developing our work, either by writing for us, or selling copies of the monthly edition then contact us at isrmedia@protonmail.com.

At the time of going to print, the Zionist entity has carried out a wave of terrorist attacks in Lebanon, targeting Lebanese civilians as well as the regions leading resistance movement, Hezbollah. Scores are dead and hundreds are injured in a massive propaganda coup for the Zionists and their imperialist masters in Britain and the US, who no doubt had a hand in what appears at this point to be a very sophisticated Intelligence operation. An Phoblacht Abú and the Revolutionary Socialist Republican Movement stand firmly in support of Hezbollah, the Anti Zionist Resistance and the Lebanese people. We will continue to take to the streets in support of the anti-Zionist Resistance and we call on all Republicans, Socialists, Anti Imperialists and other progressives to be ready to step up our collective activism against Zionism in the event that Lebanon is invaded and a wider regional war sparked in the Middle East.

All Republicans should note with concern the increasing aggression against POWs by the Mi5 led gaol administration in Maghaberry. It seems British Imperialism has learned nothing over the years and has failed to learn that the Republican base will never accept attacks on POWs. An Phoblacht Abú calls on all Republicans, regardless of affiliation to stand behind the POWs. It is completely unacceptable that ex-POW groups are remaining silent at this time. Their silence now will be their greatest shame.

POWs, Internment, extradition and non-jury courts are all issues that genuine Republicans oppose and should be prepared to work together to resist. Petty differences and egos must now be left at the door. An Phoblacht Abú notes with cautious optimism the work that has begun between a number of Republican groups around cooperation in recent weeks.

The international situation is very favourable to Revolution. The tide of revolutionary armed struggle is rising and is being taken up by Occupied and oppressed people from Palestine, Yemen, Iraq and Lebanon to Latin America, the Philippines, India Turkey and the Donbas. Ireland will be no different. Freedom, as outlined in the 1916 Proclamation and the 1919 Democratic Programme will only come through the Revolutionary struggle. A Republican Movement that stands together instead of apart will greatly strengthen our fight for Freedom. Now is the time to learn from our collective history, look to the future and organise, to resist British Rule and break the connection with Imperialism once and for all.

Dannielle Meighan (Belfast)

Republicans across Ireland were shocked to learn of the sudden death of Belfast socialist Republican, Danille Meighan. A founding and leading member of the socialist Republican organisation Lasair Dhearg in her native Belfast, Dannielle was also a much-respected youth and community worker, putting her deeply held Socialist Republican principles into action on a daily basis. An Phoblacht Abú extends our deepest sympathies to the family, friends and comrades of Dannielle at this difficult time.

Óglach Noel "Gura" Murphy (Dublin)

Republicans across Dublin and further afield were saddened to learn of the death of veteran Ringsend Republican, Noel 'Gura' Murphy. A docker and trade unionist, the Gura was a lifelong Republican activist and IRA Volunteer active from the 1950s and who played a major role in the defence of Derry at the outbreak of the current, ongoing phase of the war for National Liberation. Noel got a fine send off from his community who turned out in force to bid Slán Abhaile to an Irish Republican Freedom Fighter.

Willie McConville (Armagh)

An Phoblacht Abú extends our deepest sympathies to serving Irish Republican POW Brendan Mc Conville and Family following the death of his father Wille. Willie was known to Republicans across Ireland through the campaign for Justice for the Craigavon two and his tireless support for his son and John Paul Wooton. Sadly, Willie died before both men have been proven innocent, but Republicans will surely keep up the campaign until justice.

BALLYFERMOT REMEMBERS TROOP TRAIN AMBUSH

On Sunday September 1st Republican activists from across Dublin and further afield gathered in Ballyfermot on Sunday to commemorate the Ballyfermot Train Ambush, a successful operation carried out by F Coy, 4th Batt Dublin Brigade Óglaigh na h-Éireann against a British Troop Train during the Tan war just days before the truce.

The Ballyfermot Troop Train ambush was one of the first times the IRA successfully used a Thompson sub machine gun in combat against the British forces of Occupation.

AIA OPPOSES EXTRADITION OF ALL IRISH REPUBLICANS

This month AIA members in Dublin have unveiled a new banner against the extradition of Irish Republicans, as the Socialist Republican group committed to up the campaign on this issue. 5 Irish Republicans are currently before the Free State Courts at the behest of British Imperialism as the British establishment continues its dirty war against Republicans. AIA believes all Republicans, regardless of affiliation should work together to prevent the extradition of any Irish Republican. An injury to one is an injury to all.

DUNDALK REPUBLICANS ROUT THE FASCISTS

On September 4th, members of AIA were present at an Anti Fascist demonstration in Dundalk County Louth alongside other Republicans and Anti Fascists to oppose the presence of the far right.

It was clear from the behaviour of the Gardaí that they intended to facilitate this march which featured calls to "Burn them out" and for mass deportations. However, despite heavy Garda intimidation, a number of activists confiscated materials belonging to fascist organisers.

In recent weeks, Dundalk has been the scene of a number of victories against fascists agitators and the far right who had attempted to organise in the town. But continually confronted by Republican activists, most significantly from AIA and Soaradh, it looks like the local fascists have run out of steam for now, and Dundalk has shown the way to the rest of the country in how to ensure no platform is given to the scum.

AIA will continue to work and build with other Republicans and Anti Fascists to oppose fascism wherever it rears its ugly head. No Pasaran!

On the Waterford Coalition Against Fascism- AIA Waterford

In recent weeks, a new political campaign, the "Waterford Coalition Against Fascism", has been circulating leaflets and advertisement material both in Waterford City and online.

This material calls for a counter-demonstration to be held on the 15th and announces the formation of the WCAF, an alliance of "local community and union organisers" and "political parties that value our diverse community". They have set up a social media page hosted by Waterford For All, a local group which has hosted demonstrations attended by Socialist Republicans in the past.

As shown in the WCAF's promotional material, the coalition's membership includes a number of organisations and political parties which Socialist Republicans and genuine anti-fascists can have no truck with. The most objectionable of these is the Green Party, one of the ruling semi-colonial parties of the Free State, who have overseen and rubber-stamped the vicious crackdowns against republican organisations and activists. The Blueshirt government has no interest in fighting fascism, but rather facilitates its growth with impunity.

Given that the Green Party has also administered the Direct Provision system, it is shameful that they would be invited into this coalition on behalf of the refugees and vulnerable people which they torment. Anti-Imperialist Action Ireland condemns the presence of the Green Party, among others, in the Waterford Coalition Against Fascism and re-iterate that we have no connection with their campaign. The genuine interests of locals who have mobilised to stand up to bussed-in fascist agitators will be terribly misrepresented by the WCAF's line-up, which is a pitiful attempt to reconcile the Free State with the anti-fascist cause.

AIA Waterford remains committed to anti-fascism. We are always open to working with others in order to combat common enemies. The Free State administration is an enemy of our people and we will never stand with such parties. We call on the WCAF to expel the Green Party immediately. Considering that several groups involved have protested the shameful actions of the GP in the past, they should already know that they cannot pretend to remain on the side of our communities in their company. Reformists with little prior interest in anti-fascism have no right to drag its name through the mud.

STARMER NOT WELCOME!

On Saturday September 7, Revolutionary Irish Republicans and Palestinian Solidarity Organisations held a militant demonstration against the visit of British imperialist Prime Minister, Keir Starmer, to Ireland.

Scores attended the event on O'Connell Bridge and defiantly flew the flags of the Irish Republican and Palestinian National Resistance Movements.

Those in attendance sent a clear message that the Occupation of Ireland and Palestine will be resisted and that British Imperialism will be held accountable for their ongoing crimes in both countries.

While the event was monitored by the Free State Special Branch and at least 3 units of the Riot Squad, the demonstration received a lot of support from Irish Fans on the way to Landsdowne Road and 200 leaflets outlining the reasons for the demonstration were handed out.

Anti Imperialist Action remains committed to resisting British Imperialism across Ireland and with the Palestinian Resistance!

ON THE ANTI-FASCIST RESISTANCE IN ENGLAND

An article by the Connolly Association, England.

Racist rioters, Rotherham, August 20

In recent weeks the issue of far right, right wing fascism, neo nazi, has become a buzz word for the liberal left and media outlets. Leading to a rush to see which group can organise a photo opportunity, a chance to pat themselves and their ilk on the back for a job well done. Before rushing back to hold online meetings, webinars, or setting up WhatsApp, or social media groups to absorb the essential self-publicity that feeds their egos. This should come as no surprise.

This is not antifascism; this is not community defence and should not be accepted as such. It would be fatal to adopt the position that these events simply just happened. The right wing and/or neo nazis suffer the same affliction as the liberal left, they require their ego to be fed, either by social media likes or by creating another group of flag shaggers.

Antifascism in Communities

Antifascism is not just providing a physical force to smash the right wing; it's about building a cohesive and confident community.

Militant Antifascists have remained active and vigilant within their communities, maintaining those essential community ties and confidence.

The communities see and accept that antifascists operate with consent, they see them as an essential part of developing safe neighbourhoods.

Without the support and understanding of the community anti-fascist activism, it would be relegated to a debating society, with no direct action.

We are familiar with the phrase 'they never went away you know' and whilst the source of this comment, is at best an odious character, the phrase is relevant to how antifascist embed themselves into their communities and develop trust and understanding.

Over the last decade or so, antifascism was, and is, promoted by providing community gyms, to build fitness, and offer the opportunity to develop boxing, and self-defence techniques. It was recognised that our communities encountered disproportionate effects of government policy. Antifascist responded by providing essential food banks to communities where demand was the greatest, they also enabled other communities to get large food parcels delivered to community hubs.

Within the communities, antifascist have provided ad hoc pop up advice groups on housing matters enabling the community to hold landlords to account. Where community members were provided with substandard housing with poor living conditions, direct action was taken against profiteering scum landlords resulting in members of the community living in habitable housing.

In recent weeks new 'buzz words' such as 'community defence' have adorned the liberal left. Communities judge the liberal left by their actions, who hold a static demos in collaboration with the police. They exhibit their self-promoting placards, have a few photos, say a few speeches, then leave the community, never to be seen until the next round of 'buzz words'.

Anti-Fascist protest, Wood Green 1977

This is not community defence that anti-fascists undertake nor would take part in.

Internationalist Approach

Militant antifascist have been active, not just in their immediate community, but much wider afield, resulting in militant direction action being taken against known fascist, and those with established links with neo nazis based in Russia, Germany, Ukraine to name a few, and Ulster Loyalists. It can be viewed that Ulster loyalists and neo nazis are one and the same.

The English neo nazis operate much more under the radar than the right-wing media whores who debate everything online. Over the years those who choose to build links with the neo nazi movement have been on the radar. It's always surprising that they are quite shocked when confronted.

Militant Antifascism.

There can be no consideration to debate, there can only be a position of physical removal of fascism from society. History has recorded the narrative for us and future antifascist, from the International Brigades in Spanish Civil War to Cable Street, only direct physical engagement in the single solution.

The way in which fascists are removed differs greatly today than it did a decade ago. The increasing use of surveillance in public spaces must be considered and balanced before any direct action. Antifascists are often questioned by those who seek validation of their political lives through likes and ticks on social media. It's impossible to put a total on how many times this question has been posed to militant anti-fascist 'what have you done to remove fascism from the streets?'

Militant Antifascism is a covert revolutionary movement, an essential part of a successful movement. This must remain so if it is to continue the successes of physical confrontation. It appears incompatible with successful organising for antifascist to undertake direct physical confrontation in places such as town centres, such a move will result in a free ticket to jail. It's always a struggle to understand why others seek militant antifascist to undertake such a reckless action, perhaps the photo opportunity for their online validation.

Groups on the left often request militant antifascist to provide security for their events, then when direct action occurs, they do not hesitate to provide possible details of the antifascists activist to the authorities.

There can be no mistake that some fascist activity in England is facilitated by neo nazis in other countries. With such an analysis it made sense to look upriver to find the source and treat it. Antifascists have adopted an international approach and have travelled to build on solidarity and assist international antifascist struggles.

Based on experience the trade union movement have not been welcoming of militant anti-fascist action. It's not uncommon for trade union activists to ask militant antifascist to leave, remove face covering, and seek the assistance of police.

It seems at odds with the value base of the International Brigades and Cable Street when the trade union movement formed a key recruiting ground for antifascist to undertake military action against Franco and direct action against Mosley...what's happened to those trade union values?

Militant Antifascists have established what appears to be a successful structure of operation. It does not have an ego to feed or require gratification from social media, it recognises that the greatest threat to its revolutionary operations are online social media, webinar meetings, etc.

No fascist has ever stopped their activity after having received a threat online, they do however cease activity once they have encountered physical direct action.

Militant antifascism is at the core of communities, they have always been part of that community, which values their presence.

The communities are strong enough to support each other, they do not require the patronising lip service of the liberal left.

Antifascism is a way of life, its community, we are not arrogant, just better.

Not one step back!

UNBOWED, UNBROKEN, UNREPENTANT

In defiance of the imperialist oppressor, and in solidarity with our comrades, incarcerated for their politics, their principles, and their unwavering courage, we send this message: We are unbowed, unbroken, and unrepentant. We stand shoulder to shoulder with those who have resisted, who have stood their ground, who have refused to bend to the might of the occupiers and their paramilitaries, both uniformed and un-uniformed.

These comrades, who find themselves imprisoned not because of any wrongdoing but because of their steadfast opposition to imperialism, are not forgotten. Their strength fuels our collective will. Their sacrifice reminds us of the price of freedom, and their imprisonment is a testimony to the fear that our enemies hold in the face of resistance. The so-called justice system of the imperialists is a tool for repression, a weapon used to silence those who dare to rise against their tyranny. The paramilitary forces, secret police, spy agencies, and counter-revolutionary collaborators, whether under different names or shades of politics, are united in their goal of upholding the power of the oppressor and crushing any attempt at genuine liberation. But in every corner of the struggle, the voice of resistance rings louder. Irish Socialist Republicans, Anti-Imperialists of every hue, stand unified in our mission to end the occupation, dismantle the structures of oppression, and abolish the partition that divides our land. We will not allow ourselves to be fractured by differences of opinion or tactics. Our fight is collective, and it spans beyond false borders, beyond factions.

You have failed to break us, You sought to criminalise us, to smear our cause with the language of criminality. You tortured our comrades, hoping to destroy our spirit through physical pain. You deployed your shoot-to-kill policies, believing that you could kill a movement by killing its members. But your efforts were in vain. You did not defeat us.

We are a risen people, and with every strike you attempt, you strengthen our resolve.

Extradition to your so-called justice system, your hellholes that masquerade as prisons—will not break us either. We defy you. Do your worst.

Our comrades, like those of so many before, are prisoners of war. They are not criminals, but revolutionaries, standing firm against a system of oppression that seeks to crush any who dare oppose it. Their cause is just. Their struggle is righteous. They are not forgotten, and they are certainly not alone.

Every prison wall you erect, every piece of legislation you pass to contain us, every soldier you send to patrol our streets, will be met with our defiance. The unity of the Irish Socialist Republicans, the anti-imperialists, and revolutionaries everywhere stands as a force that will not be intimidated. It is a force driven by the memory of our fallen, by the courage of our prisoners, and by the collective will of our people to be free.

We stand firm in our belief that the tide of history is with us. We know that imperialism, no matter how entrenched, is a structure built on lies, on exploitation, and on the violence of collective punishment. And like all such structures, it will crumble in the face of sustained resistance. We are unbowed. We are unbroken. We are unrepentant.

To our comrades in prison, we say this, you are not alone in your struggle. Your sacrifice is part of a larger movement, a movement that will not rest until all people are free from the chains of imperialism. The fight for liberation is far from over, and each day you resist from within those walls, you inspire us to continue the struggle on the outside.

The system may attempt to silence us, but we will not be silenced. We will continue to rise, to organise, to resist, and to fight. Our cause is just, our solidarity unshakable, and our victory inevitable.

We stand with you. We will never bend, and we will never break.
Unbowed, unbroken, unrepentant,
we are a risen people!

Anti Imperialist Action Ireland has released a statement condemning the recent so called 'bonds of friendship' tournament between the Free State Military and Police, the RUC and the British Military and Police in Kilkenny.

Speaking from Dublin, a spokesperson for the Revolutionary Socialist Republican Movement said, 'It is absolutely no surprise that free state forces would welcome the British Occupation Forces for a golf tournament and piss up in Kilkenny. The Free State and its forces were established by Britain and Britain maintains a semi colonial authority over the 26 counties while it continues the direct military occupying of our six northeastern counties.'

'That this tournament was held under a cloak of secrecy however, demonstrates that there is nothing normal about the ongoing British Occupation of Ireland and that both the British and the Free State continue to view Revolutionary Irish Republicans as a threat.'

BONDS OF FRIENDSHIP?

The spokesperson continued, 'This pro imperialist junket only came to light because a member of the British Forces of Occupation, who should never have been here in the first place, and true to form engaged in a vicious assault during the course of the event and has now appeared in a Free State court. That the Free State has imposed reporting restrictions on the name and address of this Imperialist Soldier for fear he would be targeted by Republicans, demonstrates that the state views the Republican movement as a threat and has a very clear understanding that the Irish People are opposed to the ongoing occupation and partition of our country and the presence of British Soldiers anywhere in Ireland. The hotels, golf clubs pubs and restaurants that facilitated the forces of occupation should hang their heads in shame. The profits you generated are nothing short of blood money steeped with the blood of people from Ireland, Palestine, Libya, Iraq and Afghanistan.'

The spokesperson concluded, 'The British Occupation of Ireland will never be normal. The presence of British Soldiers and their colonial militia in Ireland will never be accepted. Our history demonstrates that so long as that illegal occupation continues there will be Revolutionary Irish Republicans to resist it. So-called 'Bonds of Friendship' can never exist while our country is under occupation. In the words of the great Wicklow Socialist Republican Seamus Costello, 'No foreign army under no matter which flag, will ever garrison Ireland in peace.'

IN THE JAWS OF REACTION

In recent months, the zionist entity has been exposed more than ever as a bulwark of patriarchal imperialism.

From its settler garrison clamouring for their "right to rape", to daily femicides by the IOF stormtroopers and the entity's infamous provision of safe haven for paedophiles and other sex offenders. Without conscience, willing to court the worst dregs of humanity if it can further its aims. It is well known too the deep rooted bonds the zionist entity has with the global sex trade; from the millions generated in the entity for the sex trade to owners of Onlyfans & Pornhub funnelling millions back into the pro-"Israel" lobby and its genocidal military effort.

In a recent letter, PFLP activist and revolutionary feminist Khalida Jarrar has written of the torture imposed on her by the zionist gaol regime:

"I die every day. The cell is like a small closed box where no air enters. There is only a toilet in the cell with a small window above it, which was later sealed just one day after my transfer. They left me no space to breathe, and even what is called the 'ashnav' (peephole) on the cell door was sealed. There is only a small opening where I sit most of the time to breathe. I am suffocating in my cell, waiting for the hours to pass, hoping to find some oxygen particles to breathe and stay alive." Horrific as this treatment is, such cruelty is not surprising from zionist fascists. Ahed Tamimi in an interview a number of months ago recounted: "They tortured all the female prisoners—they beat all the female prisoners". She also spoke of women being made to sleep on the floor, deprived of food and of other necessities. Sexual assault and rape of female prisoners too has been well documented long before any recent controversy, entirely endemic to the zionist project.

For Irish Republicans, conditions like this for female prisoners are reminiscent of what Brit gaols treatment of Volunteers Mairead Farrell, Mairead Nugent and Mary Doyle. Strip searched incessantly by the occupation's footsoldiers alongside other forms of humiliation and sexual assault. The Armagh women resisted with a no wash protest — symbolically smearing the walls with menstrual blood — and later went on hunger strike against the denial of political status.

This spirit of resistance carries on today with Palestinian women and Irish republican women held in occupation gaols. They should be supported by all revolutionary feminists, on the front lines against patriarchal imperialism, in the jaws of imperialist reaction. No amount of handwringing by liberal zionists can change the reality that "Israel" and its backers in NATO are the greatest stumbling block to women's freedom; it is impossible to imagine women's emancipation without the defeat of imperialism. Everywhere British, American or European imperialism has conquered and plundered, the oppression of women intensifies — in their zionist military outpost most of all.

Republican POW no wash protest, Armagh Gaol.

A CALL TO REVOLT AND RESIST!

A Republican Ex-POW calls for Republican Co-operation

In every corner of the world, the people have risen time and time again, shaking the foundations of unjust systems. We stand on the shoulders of those who came before us, the revolutionaries who fought tirelessly for equality, dignity, and freedom from exploitation. Ours is a history of struggle, born out of necessity, forged in the fire of class conflict. We are a risen people, bound not by the chains of oppression but by the collective strength of solidarity. And we will prevail, we will have a workers Republic!

Unlike the fascists who thrive on division and violence, our movement is rooted in the people. It grows from the soil of communities long crushed under the weight of capitalist exploitation. The fascists claim to represent the working class, but they are nothing more than puppets for the predator class, the capitalist elites who pull the strings from their ivory corporate towers, pitting worker against worker to maintain their power. They seek to turn us against each other, to distract us with hate, while they siphon wealth from the hands of those who labour, leaving us with nothing but scraps.

But we are not fooled. We understand their game. History teaches us that fascism rises when the ruling class feels threatened by the power of the people. It is a tool, a last-ditch effort to crush worker solidarity, to prevent us from recognising our true enemy, the capitalist / imperialist system itself. Fascists claim to protect "the nation" or "the people," but what they really protect are the profits of the few. They serve the interests of the capitalists who fund them, propping up the very system that exploits the many for the benefit of the few.

But we are different. We are in the people, of the people, and for the people. Our movement does not seek to divide, it seeks to unite. Our struggle is not based on fear, hate, or scapegoating. It is based on solidarity, on the belief that all people, regardless of their nationality, race, or gender, deserve dignity, respect, and the fruits of their labour. We do not fear the power of the people, we are the people. The capitalists are terrified of what we represent. They fear that if workers unite across borders, across industries, across lines of division, their power will crumble. And they are right to be afraid. Because when workers come together, when we recognise our collective power, nothing can stand in our way. We are the engine of the world. It is our labour that creates wealth, not the whims of capitalists. And it is time that we reclaim that power.

The predator class, the billionaires, the corporate executives, the bankers, they have no allegiance to any nation or people. Their only loyalty is to profit. They exploit the resources of the earth, the labour of workers, and the divisions between us to maintain their wealth. They use the media they own to push their narrative, to tell us that there is no alternative to capitalism, that we must accept our fate. But we know better. There is an alternative, and it is the path of socialism, the path of collective ownership, of cooperation, of solidarity.

We see through their lies. We see how they use the mechanisms of the state to suppress dissent, how they criminalise protest, and militarise the police to defend their interests. They may have the money, but we have the numbers. And that terrifies them. History has shown us that when the people rise, they cannot be stopped. From the French Revolution to the Russian Revolution, from the Haitian slave revolt to the anti-colonial movements across Africa and Asia, the people have always prevailed when they fought for their freedom and dignity.

And so, we call on all those who stand against oppression, who refuse to be divided by the lies of the ruling predator class, to rise. To revolt. To resist. Our time is now. The capitalist system is crumbling under its own contradictions. We are witnessing unprecedented inequality, ecological devastation, and the rise of fascist forces around the world. But rather than succumbing to despair, we must seize this moment. We must organise, educate, and mobilise. We must build a movement that is truly of the people, by the people, and for the people.

We will prevail because we are many, and they are few. We will prevail because our struggle is righteous. We will prevail because we are on the side of history. The predator class may have their billions, their politicians, and their police, but they cannot stop the will of the people once it is set in motion.

We have a proud revolutionary history, and we will add to it. We are a risen people, and we will continue to rise until capitalism and fascism are nothing but relics of the past. Together, we will build a world where no one is exploited, where the wealth of society is shared by all, and where the dignity of every person is respected.

Revolt. Resist.
Victory is ours if we stand together.
